Extending Our Central Idea: Celebrations can nurture wellbeing and build community

Celebrations nurture children's wellbeing by fostering a sense of belonging, joy, and shared identity within the learning community. Through celebrations, children can explore diverse cultural practices, develop empathy, and understand how rituals and traditions connect people and support emotional wellbeing.

Exploring Our Community Garden and the Language of Food

Children will engage with seasonal recipes, prepare meals, and contribute to our ELC Community Garden, including the new bush tucker bed. These experiences foster healthy eating habits, responsibility, and connection through food.

Investigating Literacy and STEM

Vacation Care will extend vocabulary and literacy through storytelling, bookmaking, and digital media. STEM activities across the ELC will promote critical thinking, problem-solving, and collaboration.

The Hundred Languages of Children

In the Atelier, children will explore and express their ideas through creative languages such as clay, painting, photography, music, and dance—celebrating the Hundred Languages of children as a powerful tool for communication and discovery.

Connecting with Our Natural Environment

Our outdoor deck facing Ferguson Park will become a sensory lab for nature exploration, mark making, and loose parts play.

Wellbeing, Nature, and Gross Motor Skills

We'll continue to support emotional regulation and physical development through outdoor play and gross motor activities, encouraging movement, coordination, and self-awareness.

What to Bring to Vacation Care

During Vacation Care, children are required to wear their ELC uniform to support consistency and continuity throughout the school year. Our ELC uniform simplifies the routine of getting dressed in the morning and promotes a sense of belonging. Children will need to bring their hat, water bottle, and a change of clothes each day. A healthy morning and afternoon tea, lunch, and late snack will continue to be provided to children.
